Director's Notes

Singing together in a choir is a powerful way to restore physical health, improve mental and emotional wellness, and create connections between people that have often been broken while living on the streets. I believe in a holistic and Christian approach that feeds not only the body, but also the spirit.

SDSC Team

Our all-volunteer San Diego Street Choir Team is a group of like-minded professionals who have a heart for God, music, people, and serving those who are currently experiencing homelessness.

A God-Inspired Ministry

SDSC is more than singing.
It's FUN, FAMILY, and FELLOWSHIP

Meet Margaret Knetzer

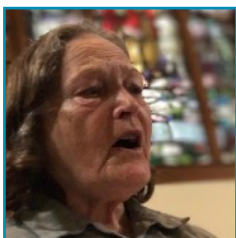

Margaret has been in the SDSC since the beginning and has never missed a rehearsal or performance. Here, in her words...

"I was born and raised on a Kansas farm and attended a rural all-eight grades school. We had no electricity, no telephone and a wood stove. Students sitting next to the stove were burning up and those on the other side of the room were cold. We could place our cheese sandwiches on the stove and toast them.

We rode our horses to school. A farmer would come at noon and make sure the horses had food and water. Girls were allowed to play on the sports teams because we did not have enough boys to make a team. The honor of the day was to be chosen to be the "coal carrier". Take the coal bucket, go to the coal house and fill the bucket. The coal house was dark and we all swore we had seen ghosts. Another great honor... ringing the big black bell! At lunch time we played marbles and 'ante-over'. In the winter we skated on the frozen pond near the school. Eventually, all country schools closed. We were consolidated with the city schools. What a sad day! No more riding our horses to school. No more ringing the bell.

I am glad I was raised on a farm. My father was present for all meals - quite different from today's culture. Children often never see their fathers. Living on a farm is a good taste of reality!"
